Lake Street District In Big Mass Meeting

RAPIDLY GROWING SECTION DISCUSSES IMPROVEMENTS WITH OFFICIALS OF CITY

Need of Better School Facilities, Increase in Car Service and Other Developments Come Before Large Gathering Last Night

The opportunity to meet and discuss with Glendale city officials the various problems that confront the newly annexed Lake street district last night drew a throng of over 700 men, women and children to the corner of Western avenue and Lake street, where a mass meeting was held under auspices of the Western Avenue Improvement association.

SHORTAGE IN COFFEE IS LOOMING

Brazilian Revolution Causes Cut In Shipment of Products to U. S.

Mr. and Mrs. American Citizen will be paying unheard of prices for their morning cups of coffee or else going without this daily luxury, unless there is a speedy end to the revolution in Sao Paulo, South America, declared E. U. Emery of 329 North Kenwood street, representing the Newark Coffee company office in Los Angeles.

In telling of an interview this morning with a leading coffee broker, Mr. Emery stated that at present there are less than 1,000,000 bags of coffee in the United States, this amount falling short of a supply necessary for a demand for thirty days.

Advance in Prices
The wholesale prices have been advanced about 2 cents per pound, due to the revolution 6,000 miles away.

The prolongation of the revolution, Mr. Emery predicts, beyond four or five weeks, will mean that Americans will be unable to get coffee at all.

Mr. Emery's company expected several thousand pounds of coffee on a ship arriving recently, but the ship did not even put into the South American port.

Next Boat in September
"The Pacific coast will feel the shortage keenly," says Mr. Emery, "because we depend on Central America for our coffee, and the next coffee boat to arrive will be late in September."

Mr. Emery adds that companies could import coffee from Central America, but there the crops have not been good and the coffee is not always satisfactory.

Threat of Rate War Is Seen by British

LONDON, July 18.—The Express, under the heading, "America revives her shipping threat," carries a statement by Vice-President Plummer of the United States shipping board, stating that he is trying to get foreign shipowners to raise freight rates 20 per cent and unless this is done America will have to offer preferential tariffs on imports brought in American bottoms.

Eleven Men Drowned In Amsterdam Storm

LONDON, July 18.—A violent gale is sweeping over Amsterdam and eleven lives have been lost, said a dispatch today from Amsterdam. The victims were fishermen whose boats were sunk or capsized when the storm whipped the sea into a fury. There was considerable property damage and all air service has been suspended, the dispatch said.

They not only greeted the many representatives of the city government present, but treated them royally. Tea, cream, home-made cake, sandwiches and coffee being served at numerous tables, under gaily swinging Japanese lanterns—ample proof, the many guests agreed, that this association has a live auxiliary.

Danger to Children

Need for schools in this district, which had motivated the meeting, was its inspiration throughout. President I. J. Hoover of the Western Avenue Improvement association said that children of the district were compelled to cross the Southern Pacific tracks, the San Fernando road and the Pacific Electric interurban tracks in order to get to the nearest school, the Grand View school at 1540 Fifth street.

Mr. Hoover turned the meeting over to W. R. Faires, secretary of the association, who acted as master of ceremonies, introducing the several important speakers. Mr. Faires is an enthusiastic worker of the district and made an ideal master of ceremonies.

First of the speakers was Mayor Spencer Robinson of Glendale, who, after jollying the large crowd in his usual jovial manner, pictured the Glendale of years ago, and declared that the city has grown to its present proportions largely because of such meetings as this.

Promises Service

Councilman S. S. Gilhuly, the next speaker, told of receiving assurances from the Pacific Electric company that the Doran street and San Fernando road bus line is to be put on a schedule that will bring service to the Lake street district. The thing has come so suddenly and moves so rapidly that we can scarcely keep up with it. He then compared the growth of Glendale to that of a boy at the "awkward" age, when nothing is big enough for long, concluding his remarks with the assurance that the board of education is doing everything possible to secure proper school facilities for the district.

Tells of Development

Chief John D. Fraser of the Glendale police department then spoke briefly, pledging his full support to the district, and stating that he is at their call.

J. H. Randall, president of the Fourth Street Improvement association, and a member of the City Planning commission, next addressed the assemblage, picturing the growth of the district from a handful of houses a year ago to the present teeming community. He spoke of the proposal to connect Western avenue, Hollywood, with Western avenue, Hollywood, by means of a tunnel under Griffith park, and prophesied that the Western avenue district would be one of the best in Glendale inside of five years.

Peter Diederich, superintendent of plant and production, then spoke, telling the audience that the progress of any territory depends on water, and that proceedings for a water system in the newly-annexed territory will start Thursday, July 24, and will be completed in about six months. Regarding lights, he stated that application has been made to the Southern California Edison company for their inventory and that the city will take this distribution over at the earliest possible moment.

Permanent Grades

Benjamin F. Dupuy, city engineer, declared that Western avenue will go through to Crescent street, fifty feet wide between

Tahoe Fire Breaks Bounds, Destroying Quantity of Timber

SAN FRANCISCO, July 18.—One hundred additional men were rushed from Sacramento late today to Westville when the Forest Hill divide fire in the Tahoe national forest, the most serious single blaze that has devastated California forests this year, jumped Humboldt creek and rapidly burned east toward Westville.

The conflagration is rushing in a gigantic strip five miles long and sixteen miles wide through some of the heaviest timber in the forest, the United States forester's office here announced.

CITY TRAFFIC BOARD IS 'IGNORED'

Why Did Council Appoint Commission? Questions
Secretary Towman

What has become of the Glendale Traffic commission?

The commission made a thorough study of conditions and submitted a report to the City Council, and then—

"Some one has said that the Glendale Traffic commission has died the death of a rag doll. It has been worse than that. The City Council which appointed us has ignored us, and the question naturally arises, why was the traffic commission appointed in the first place?" today said M. B. Towman, secretary of the traffic commission.

'Utterly Ignored'

"I am not giving any personal feeling in the matter, but the unanimous opinion of the commission when I say that the commission and the things we recommended have been utterly ignored by the council."

"The commission held fourteen meetings within three weeks after it was named. We have not held a meeting for the past three weeks because we felt there was nothing for us to do, and if we did do it, what co-operation would we get from the council?"

"At those fourteen meetings we heard complaints, made interviews, investigated causes, looked into situations and everything that could be applied to the traffic problems. We boiled these findings down and submitted our report to the City Council in writing."

Council Is Silent

"We heard no direct word from the council on the report. The only time the council ever seemed to recognize their own appointed traffic commission was some time later when one member, and only one member, was served with a notice of a meeting with the council. Another member happened to attend this meeting as he was in the City hall at the time. The rest knew nothing about it until it was all over."

"The commission met once with the City Council. That was before we made our report. We asked a lot of questions, and, although all the councilmen were there, City Manager Stone answered the questions. We found out later some of the answers were incorrect. There was no move made by the council to correct these wrong impressions we had been given. But, when we stated things in our report, based on some of these answers, we heard that 'we evidently had the wrong idea about some matters.'"

"What's the use?"

County Gives $60,000 For Meeting Part Of Cost In Paving San Fernando Road

An appropriation of $60,000 toward the paving of San Fernando road has been made by the board of supervisors of Los Angeles county, according to information received from Supervisor Henry W. Wright by Virgil B. Stone, Glendale city manager.

This is the first time in the history of the city that Glendale taxpayers have benefited directly from the large sums of money they have contributed to the county, Mr. Stone states. The appropriation comes from the state automobile tax road fund and was obtained after a series of communications and conferences starting May 9, when Mr. Stone first made application to the Board of Supervisors for the maximum allowance to improve San Fernando road.

On July 2 and again on July 16 Mr. Stone took up the matter with Mr. Wright and with Commissioner Jones of the county missioner Jones of the county that highway," Mr. Stone declared this morning. "All that remains is for them to decide on the type of paving and publish resolutions of intention through the City Council, when the customary proceedings will be followed."

Mr. Stone says he wishes to thank Supervisor Henry W. Wright and the Los Angeles Board of Supervisors, on behalf of the city of Glendale, for the co-operation that resulted in this appropriation being made.

At present petitions are being circulated by property owners along San Fernando road for the forthcoming improvement.

SAFETY IN THE USE OF POWER under the direction of the power administration in Southern California has been successful in reducing the load 25 per cent, said a summary issued by Harry G. Butler, power supervisor of the State Railroad commission, today, which declared the reductions must remain in force until January 1, 1925.

"Sign and display lighting advertising in Los Angeles has been practically eliminated except on Sunday nights," Butler said. "Street, parquet, window and similar lighting has been reduced to a minimum of safety. All industrial, agricultural and other users of power are on rations of 75 per cent of their normal demands."

"Every possible source of power, including the small steam or gas or Diesel units of consumers has been pressed into service. Altogether the load has been reduced approximately 25 per cent. Unless the company suffers the loss of any generating plant, the present restrictions are sufficient to enable the power company to handle its load through to the end of the year."

"The restrictions will have to remain in force until January 1, 1925, unless early rains fall. After that time the completion of a large steam unit by the Southern California Edison company will probably make it possible to resume normal operations, even if there is a reduced rainfall."

Any member who desires to contribute more than the $1 assessment for the fund may do so, it was determined. The fund will be at the disposal of the committee headed by Ed Radke, chairman, and a report of receipts and expenditures will be given to the club members. This action will assure sufficient money for caring for children who would otherwise be denied many things, it was said.

The attendance prize, donated by Ed Radke, was won by Thomas L. Totman. The silent boost, a pencil, was donated to each member by Ray Goode of Goode & Belew. Chief of Police John D. Fraser led the community singing, assisted by George Lyons, with William Bode at the piano.

Aged Men Battle For Woman's Love; 1 Dead, 1 Arrested

SAN FRANCISCO, July 18.—Two men, each past their allotted span of three score and ten, battled over their love for a 70-year-old woman.

One of them, Hugh McCloskey, 71, is in his grave, and Henry Mueller, 75, faced police court today on a charge of manslaughter.

At the Relief home, where the fight occurred, Mrs. Ida Hubbell, over whose smiles the men fought, quietly went about the drab routine of her life there.

"I didn't kill him," Mueller told him. "We met on the stairs. He shook his fist under my nose and said 'what are you doing with my sweetheart?' I tried to get away, but he held me. Finally he tripped on his own cane and fell downstairs."

At the Relief home it was said McCloskey died from pneumonia induced by the shock of the fall.

These ratios are obtained by comparison with census reports, Mr. Stone states, and have been proved accurate in general use throughout the United States, over a long period of years. That they under-shoot rather than exceed the mark is proved by the fact that estimates on the population obtained from multiplying meter installations by these ratios produce totals less than the established population figures of the city, as shown in the following table:

Year	Meters	Multiplied by Ratio of 4	Multiplied by Ratio of 4 1/2	Established Population
1921	6,090	24,360	27,505	25,720
1922	8,256	33,024	37,152	32,500
1923	10,469	41,876	47,110	42,000
1924	13,290	53,160	59,805	50,000

From the above table it is seen that the number of electric meters multiplied by the ratio 4 produces for the years in question a series of populations that are in some cases less than the actual established populations of these years.

Estimates Population In 1925 At 64,000

It is therefore safe to state that the present population of Glendale is at least 53,160, and in the opinion of Mr. Stone this figure may be considerably too low, as there are parts of the city where meter installations are known to be less than one to every four people.

From these figures furnished by the light department it is also possible to estimate the population of Glendale in the future, as the ratio of increase each year holds approximately constant, being about 20 per cent each year. Thus in 1925 Glendale will have a population of approximately 64,000 people, in 1926 approximately 77,000, in 1927 approximately 92,000, and in 1928 over 110,000 people within the city limits.

Fear Of Being Tagged
Interesting Experiences
Fail To Think Quickly
Some Reform Suggestions

By Gil A. Cowan

Really, it was humorous to read in yesterday's issue of The Glendale Evening News of the letter of a man (whom we recognized, although he hid behind the cloak of anonymity), who said he was not signing his name for fear of being trailed and tagged.And it wasn't so humorous to hear the story of another who was deliberately forced into paying a $25 fine, as the Auto club representative knows. It was simply a case of his word against that of the cop.The experiences of people in Glendale police court charged with traffic violations make interesting reading.Remember, "nothing but the truth," and don't be personal. It isn't the judge or the police chief or the man earning his living doing his duty, but the system, and the way it is conducted, here and elsewhere, that is the subject of discussion.Two news items from the northern portion of the state this week lend light on the subject of motor accidents.A psychologist is quoted as saying that 95 per cent of all crashes are caused by the inability of drivers to think quickly. The other 5 per cent come from drunkenness or carelessness. So much for that.Another authority declares laxity on the part of our laws permits anybody to obtain a driver's license, and he tells of a deaf and dumb man now being tried for manslaughter in San Francisco after having featured in several accidents. "He never should have had a license in the first place," this critic states.As an observer at the last session of the state's Legislature, however, the writer of Comment knows it will be impossible almost to get a physical examination included in the tests for drivers' licenses. Not so long as there are deaf, blind, paralyzed and illiterate members there to sympathize with fellow unfortunates.Fully 20 per cent of those now driving cars in California could not pass the Rhode Island qualifications, which are very strict.Indeed, it would be a catastrophe to tell some millionaire visitor here that he could not drive his own machine because of gout in his great toe.Sincerely hoping that the foregoing remarks will not be considered as personal insults on the part of readers who may be afflicted, particularly with the gout, the writer has set forth these facts in an honest endeavor to point to reforms which should be made in the state motor vehicle legislation relative to the regulation of traffic.Artistic Residence

ADD TO FUND FOR SYNOD PROGRAM

Donation of $250 Made for Entertaining Delegates To Meeting Here

The Board of Control in charge of the disbursement of Glendale's advertising fund at their meeting in the Chamber of Commerce yesterday authorized the expenditure of $250 to be used in helping delegates to the meeting of the Presbyterian synod that is to be held here from July 24 to 31, and at which ministers and laymen from the churches of California, Nevada and Arizona will be present.

The request for this contribution was presented by A. L. Baird, a member of the committee that has been appointed to secure accommodations for the visitors who will be here at the sessions of the synod, the board agreeing to its payment when it was pointed out that the advertising Glendale would receive through this means would be an important asset.

Ask City Pledge
 A letter was addressed to the City Council asking that the $5000 pledged to the advertising fund by the city of Glendale be turned over to the fund. The suggestion made by the advertising committee that a compromise be made in the suit that has been filed by Charles R. Stuart against the Chamber of Commerce was rejected, and Attorney Bert P. Woodward will be authorized to answer the complaint filed by Mr. Stuart's lawyers.

President D. H. Smith presided at the meeting.

No Word Received on Postoffice Fixtures

The fixtures for Glendale's new postoffice are still missing. Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson said today. A letter from the factory in San Francisco, dated July 9, stated the fixtures were being shipped but to date no trace of them has been found.

Postmaster Jackson has taken the matter up with the factory and has asked the railroad to trace the movements of the car since it was shipped. The failure of the fixtures to reach Glendale is delaying the opening of the new postoffice, Postmaster Jackson said.

PROBE DEATH OF GLENDALE WOMAN

Police Seek to Determine Explanation of Fatal Fall From Train

Police of Los Angeles are investigating the circumstances surrounding the death of Mrs. Bert Toland, 638 West Salem street, Glendale, who died yesterday, shortly after being admitted to the receiving hospital suffering from a basal fracture of the skull, in order to determine whether her death was accidental or the result of an attempt at suicide.

Mrs. Toland, who fell from a swiftly-moving Pacific Electric car yesterday morning on Glendale boulevard, near Glenhurst avenue, was standing on the rear step of the car, according to a statement by J. W. Gould, 124 West Laurel street, Glendale, when the train passed him, and a few moments later he discovered the body of Mrs. Toland lying beside the tracks.

Neither Motorman H. C. Porter nor Conductor H. Sutton could throw any light on how Mrs. Toland happened to fall from the car, and Detective Lieutenant Charles Jarvis of the Los Angeles police was detailed to investigate the affair.

An inquest will be held at an undertaking establishment at 1236 South Grand avenue, Los Angeles, today.

Brown, parliamentarian of the first district; Mrs. Mae Rosenberg, auditor of the first district; Mrs. W. A. Kulp, chairman of extension for the Glendale Federation.

The picnic was held in Bixby park with Mrs. J. W. Lee, president of the first district, presiding.

Residents Of La Crescenta Valley Hear Addresses On Fire Guards, Flood Control

Plans for future protection from forest fires and the prevention of disastrous blazes such as swept the Verdugo Hills last fall were outlined by Norman Johnson, deputy county fire warden, in an address delivered before residents of La Crescenta valley who had gathered at a mass meeting held at the La Crescenta school last night.

The meeting was held under the auspices of the Verdugo Hills Association of Commerce, and H. N. Fowler, president of the association, presided.

Additional equipment is being purchased throughout the country, Mr. Johnson said, and squads of men are being organized and will be trained to fight forest fires that threaten to make hundreds homeless and cause thousands of dollars in property losses. The plan adopted by county officials in forming fire districts has been followed with great success in Illinois and Michigan, Mr. Johnson said.

Chief Lankford Speaks
 A. H. Lankford, fire chief of Glendale, gave facts and figures on fire fighting equipment in Glendale at the present time. Some of the equipment was purchased as far back as 1914, he said, but was still in service.

The La Crescenta valley will become a part of Los Angeles in time to come, Hugh Pomeroy, secretary of the Los Angeles Regional Planning commission, said in his address on future planning. He told of planning commissions working in various cities and communities and urged the residents of the valley to outline future policies regarding the growth of the various communities.

Urges Sewer System
 Flood control in the valley was discussed by E. Warren, senior engineer of the Los Angeles county flood control department. He told of plans now being made by the department and outlined the work that would be done in the valley. He stressed the idea of sanitation in the valley and urged the people to give serious thought to installing a sewer.

Details of a proposed boulevard from Glendale to adjacent valley points were given by T. W. Watson, chairman of the City Planning commission of Glendale. The route would cover sixteen miles and would be one of the most beautiful auto roads in the state, he said. The proposed route was traced on a map Mr. Watson used in connection with his address.

The co-operation and assistance given the planning commission by the various improvement associations in Glendale were detailed by Mr. Watson. These organizations are of great value to Glendale, he said, and have accomplished much in the way of improvements for the city.

The valley will have a police officer, Supervisor Wright said, in an address last night. Provision has been made in the coming budget for an officer for the valley, and it may be possible that a motorcycle officer would be detailed to watch for speeders along Montrose avenue, he said.

A. H. Dahlman Home Entered by Burglars

The home of A. H. Dahlman of 1108 North Jackson street was entered by burglars last night and jewelry, furs and women's wear totaling several hundred dollars in value removed. Entrance was made through a rear window, the police discovered.

R. A. Roberts of 2271 West Washington street, Los Angeles, reports to the police department that an electric sign two feet long and one foot wide was stolen from his car last night between 8 and 10:45 o'clock, while it was parked at the corner of Central avenue and Stocker street.

GLENDALEANS ON ADVISORY BOARD

Five From This City Will Assist In Hollywood Bowl Concerts

Five Glendale residents, prominent in musical circles, have been appointed on the advisory board of the Hollywood Bowl summer concerts, whose chairman is Mrs. A. B. Cooke of Los Angeles. Letters from Mrs. Cooke and from Mrs. J. J. Carter, president of the Hollywood Bowl association, congratulate the following Glendale people on their appointment, and express the association's gratitude for the excellent service they have rendered the bowl summer concerts: Mrs. Ralph Benton, Mrs. Harry S. McCormack, Mrs. Edward Cleophas, Dr. Jessie Russell and J. Arthur Myers.

Large audiences are assembling in the natural theatre at the junction of Highland and Cahuenga avenues four nights a week to enjoy the "symphonies under the stars" conducted by Alfred Hertz. Thousands of children revel in their first free concert there last Wednesday afternoon.

Next week, Sylvain Noack, concertmaster under Hertz, will play a violin solo on Thursday, Friday the Tchaikowsky Symphony No. 5 in E minor is the chief attraction, and Saturday Charles Wakefield Cadman will be honored by "Cadman Night." His entire "Thunderbird" suite will be played by the orchestra, and he will be at the piano when charming young Margaret Messer Morris sings arias from his opera, "Shanewis," which may possibly be presented in the Bowl in the autumn.

Arthur Alexander, young American, of diversified talents, will conduct again at the Bowl on Saturday night.

Charles Mallet, 92, Is Stricken by Illness

Friends of Charles Mallet, 92-year-old member of The Glendale Evening News Sunset club, will be sorry to learn that he is very ill at the home of his daughter, Mrs. R. E. Davis at 529 North Adams street. SOME PEOPLE HAVE A GENIUS—

For saying nothing and saying it constantly.
For thinking foolishness and talking noisily.
For reforming others and neglecting themselves.
For criticizing everything and constructing nothing.
For killing time and calling it LIFE.
For living recklessly and thinking themselves lucky.
For doing nothing and getting it into the newspapers.

MEN AND WOMEN, WAKE UP

Much has been said and written about a state of chaos in political affairs, and a condition of lawlessness that exists in this country, and many writers have gone right back to fundamentals and placed the blame where it belongs—on the people, the individual voter. But, we are so apt to take these criticisms of "the people" impersonally; they slide off our conscience like water off a duck's back. The man next door may be at fault, but not we. We know that conditions are in an awful state, and that "they" should do something about it," and then our own more important affairs engage our attention.

There are four classes of people among us today, and they are pretty evenly divided. First, the man who is careful not to lose his citizenship by failing to register, and who expresses his opinion conscientiously at the ballot box every time he has an opportunity. But, there are so few in this class that they cannot accomplish very much in the way of political reform and law enforcement. Second, the man who is absolutely indifferent to his country's welfare and his right of franchise. He is more of a menace than the anarchist and the I. W. W. who are trying to do away with all government, for he will eventually accomplish what they are attempting, and his methods are quicker and surer than theirs. Third, the man who believes that things are running along just as well as could be expected, and will go along just the same whether he votes or not. So, he doesn't take the time and trouble to vote. Fourth, the one who thinks that everything is all wrong, and that his vote is powerless for good in the midst of so much evil. He doesn't vote, either.

If something could only be done to stir up the people in this matter. There are those who do not use their right of franchise from one year's end to the other, and they are the ones who howl the loudest about rotten conditions. The most effective way to wake them up would be to deprive them of their franchise when they do not use it for a certain period. They would soon clamor for their rights then. Those who are apathetic where public questions are concerned would wake up and demand a voice in the government. Why is it that we never prize what we have but are always reaching out for the unattainable?

The people are presumed to be sovereign in the United States, but three-fourths of them have stepped down and gone about their own business, leaving the other fourth to assume their functions.

Men and women, wake up. Register and vote. Self-respect alone should compel you not to throw away your privileges as citizens. Do we have to have war to be loyal to our country? Is not lethargy and the surrender of our rights as voters equivalent to disloyalty?

Have you registered since January 1? If not, you have only until July 26 to perform this duty if you wish to vote at the August primaries. Do not fail to register and vote. At least, have a clear conscience, even if the affairs of the nation do not go just as they should. Don't let the blame be on your head and your soul.

When the people do wake up to a sense of their duty and responsibility—and it is unthinkable that this condition should continue much longer—then those in high places will take notice. They keep a finger on the public pulse, and when the people really want and demand reform in politics and government, they will get it. Why should we not have demagogues in public office when the people don't give a hang how things go? Public opinion is the greatest force in the world. It can accomplish anything.

Men and women, wake up!

PREVENTING MOUNTAIN FIRES

The mountain fires that have been sweeping over California (in fact, all along the Pacific slope, from British Columbia to Mexico) are not giving us any favorable publicity. Most of these fires are started by the carelessness of those who are presumed to have good sense. No one is excusable for being careless where so much is at stake. Forest fires have been so frequent and so much has been said about using care in this regard that no one can plead ignorance of the danger or of the rules.

The authorities have closed a number of canyons to pleasure-seekers, and they are perfectly right in exercising such care, although it seems unjust that those who love to camp and hike in the mountains, and who use due precautions while doing so, should have to forego their pleasures on account of the carelessness of a few. Those who prefer to spend their vacations at mountain resorts are compelled to give up their annual outings which mean so much as a diversion from the long year's grind, and many of our summer tourists are deprived of their only opportunity to view some of our beautiful mountain scenery.

Coming as this does, right on the heels of the foot and mouth disease, which caused a ban on mountain travel, many of the mountain and canyon resort owners face financial ruin, while others have had their entire equipment wiped out by fire. All the fires are not started along the mountain trails, either, so that closing the canyons does not entirely eliminate the danger. Many fires spring up along the public highways and boulevards where passing motorists throw their half-smoked cigarettes into the parched grass by the roadside. The man who goes away and leaves the remnants of a camp fire or who tosses a lighted cigarette or a bottle or piece of glass into the dry vegetation where the latter may reflect the rays of the sun and start a conflagration, is a menace to society and no less a criminal because his intentions are not evil.

It would do no good to ask that people refrain from smoking in the mountains or along the highways. But the authorities have a right to go after those who are criminally careless and surely the people will stand back of officials in seeking out and punishing these offenders to the limit of the law.

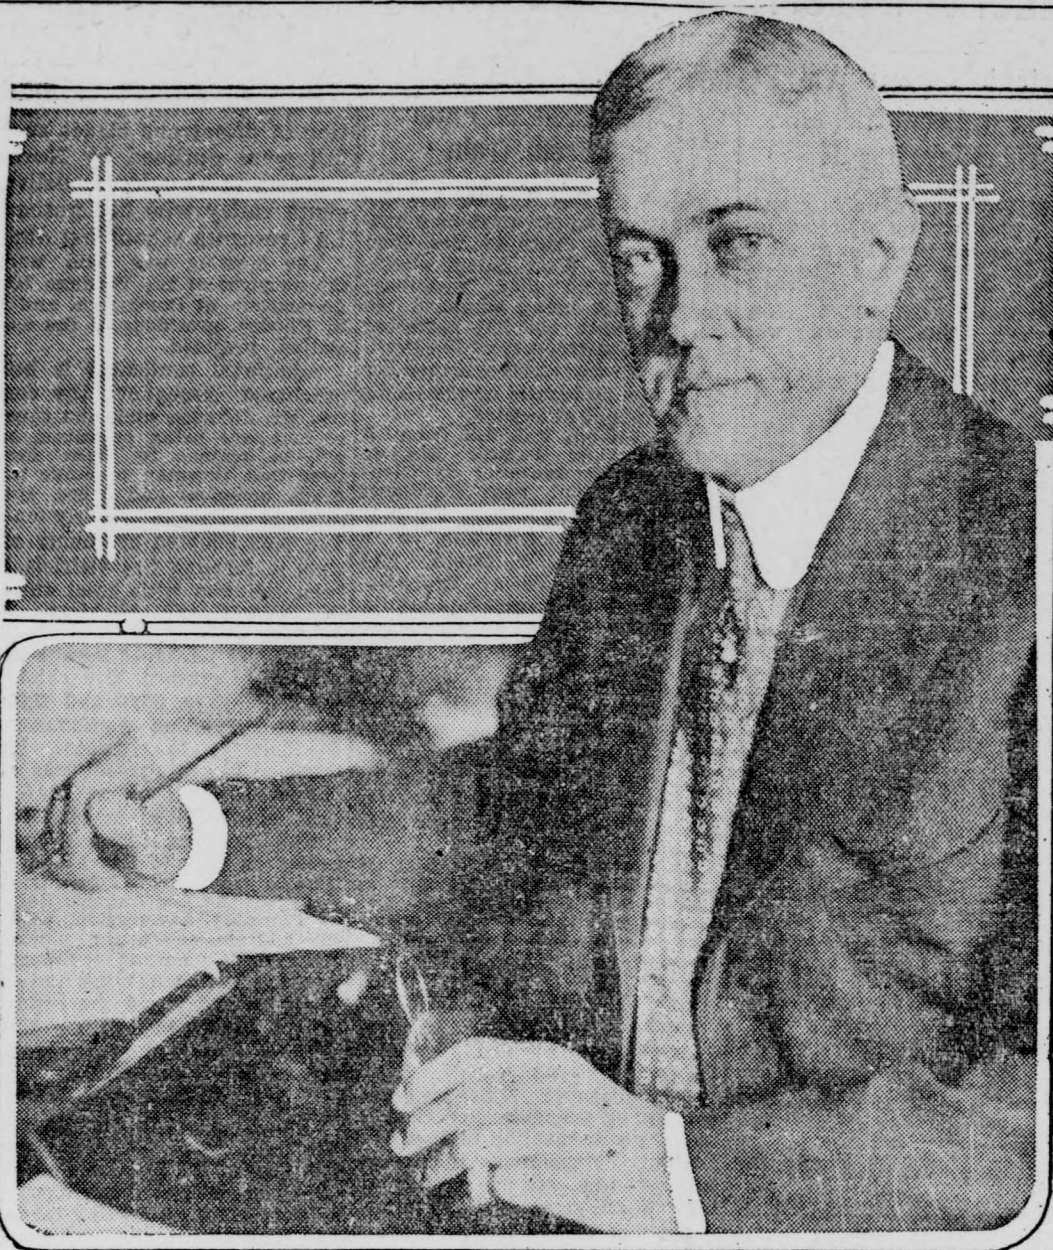

Senator La Follette says the present convention system is doomed. Be that as it may, the press correspondents who had to cover the last convention in person say it is something that sounds very much like doomed.

Man was given ten days in the jail house for galloping his flivver 54 miles per hour. By flivver owners this is considered a great moral victory over the scoffers who claim that flivvers can't travel.

Back of every ballot cast in November should be conscience, conviction and mature thought.

Heads Democratic Ticket

This is a late picture of JOHN WILLIAM DAVIS, Democratic candidate for the presidency. He was born in West Virginia, is 51 years of age, taught school, became a lawyer, mingled in politics, was Solicitor General of the United States, is a Presbyterian, was ambassador to Great Britain, and was counsel for J. P. Morgan & Co.

Thinkers and Politics

By DR. FRANK CRANE

A little book by Henri Barbusse called, "The Knife Between the Teeth," is a plea for international communism.

As an argument it is not convincing. In fact, it is not an argument so much as an impassioned appeal.

But in the first part of the book he says some things in regard to the duty of intellectuals in politics which are striking. Very often what a man says, by the way, is much more interesting and convincing than the gist of his preaching. He tells us that most people, with the intellectuals at their head, affect to despise politics. They regard politics as a field particularly full of offensive vulgarities.

In the present time and under the present conditions, where the struggle between right and wrong is waging, he considers that this attitude is vicious, that it is "a sign of aristocratic myopia, or, rather, a pretext easily explainable but little excusable, to remain comfortably hidden from the rough and tumble of life amidst clouds and phrases."

The tricks, the pettiness, the sordidness, the dull and narrow passions of politics are but scattered instances, and to build upon them the generalization that politics is an essential evil is an "infantile sophism unworthy of intelligence."

He proceeds then to give us some very burning words of exhortation and of warning, in a passage that is almost a classic.

"If the living world is to achieve a better order, or if it is to remain where it is, the matter must be effected by political measures, and all words and ideas are of no avail. To act politically is to pass from dreams to things, from the abstract to the concrete.

"Politics is the effective working out of social thought; politics is life.

"If we admit any sort of connection between theory and practice we must take our part in political life.

"To leave the men of practical politics alone in their efforts, even if we do so with an amiable neutrality, and to say that we will have no dealings with those men, this is to abandon the cause of humanity."

The Ravings Of a Grouch

In the old days the officers of the law overlooked a good bet. They could have collected considerable revenue in fines from drivers of frisky, high-stepping horses by following them with guns, for some of those high-strung teams were much more of a menace to safety than automobiles in the hands of good drivers, many of whom have been compelled to make generous contributions to the treasury of city, county or state in license and other adversely-advised parts of California.

I am law-abiding myself and am in favor of adherence to all the statutes. But it seems to me that laws are made for the good of the people and when they are enforced in a way to defeat that purpose then they are a detriment instead of a benefit. I do not think that a law administered for the purpose of bringing in fines is in keeping with the spirit of America.

The fact of the matter is, in a city, for instance, like Glendale, at least half of the motorists who appear on the street every day break the motor laws in some way or other. It is safe to say that these are all, or nearly all, people who are good citizens, careful drivers, and want above all to uphold and observe the law. There are times when the traffic would never become untangled, when serious accidents would result, if some one did not make a quick decision and a quick move and break the law in doing so.

A driver often sees the necessity of passing another car to avoid traffic congestion or accident and he speeds up and goes around when there is absolutely no danger to anyone in doing so. As safety, not revenue, is, or should be, the excuse for the existence of the speed limit law, he is not breaking the spirit of the law. It is more important that a man drive carefully than that he keep his eyes on the speedometer all of the time.

If I had a car I would be afraid to take it out on the road. I am not over-timid but if I should see one of those fierce-looking gun-men following me in the hope that he would be able to "get me" I would become so confused that I might speed up to get away from him.

Motor laws, like other laws, are necessary and should be observed. Motorists know this better than speed cops do. If the officers would co-operate with drivers they would accomplish the purpose of the law, which is the greatest possible safety and well-being of the people. But when officers of the law regard all motorists as potential criminals and treat them as enemies of society they overstep their authority and defeat the purpose of the law. The officers are the servants of the people and if I drove a car I would see that I got respectful treatment from my servants.

Lake Street District Holds Mass Meeting

curbs. The department can now give the permanent grades of all dedicated streets, he said.

A. J. Van Wie, Glendale city clerk, pictured the city of Glendale as it had been in 1919, with only one night patrolman on the police force, whereas there are now twenty-five.

Alexander Mitchell, for twenty-four years a resident of Kenneth road, pictured early conditions, stating there were but 300 residents when he came.

O. M. Newby declared the crowd was an inspiration and that cities grow great when the people work together. To be really big, a city must have schools, parks and streets, he stated.

Mr. Hoover declared that a year ago there were but ten school children in the district, and that now there are 112. "It takes bonds to build schools," he said. "and it takes votes to get bonds. We must all get in the harness and do our bit."

C. C. Bowerman, who heads a local lumber company and has made numerous investments in the district, declared that he located in this section after looking over all of Southern California and was thoroughly satisfied of its future.

The meeting adjourned after the school program endorsed by the Fourth Street Improvement association as their meeting last week had been approved. There were rising votes of thanks to the Glendale city officials who had turned out in such gratifying numbers, and to the women of the auxiliary, who had spread such an inviting feast.

The committee in charge of the refreshments comprised: Mrs. E. Pease, Mrs. F. A. Hooker, Mrs. M. J. Hooker, Mrs. J. Jenkins, Mrs. De Vischer and Miss Betty Hoover.

Diet And Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

"Dear Doctor:—I have had temporary reducing bouts before trying your system, but I have always suffered from them, and I declared that I would rather be fat than miserable, bad tempered and sorry for myself. I have had none of these bad effects by following your instructions. My fat has not only rolled off, but my self-respect has come back to stay. I expect to keep up watching my weight for the rest of my life. I intend to go Petering on instead of Petering out."

"I am in a trying position as I have to go out a great deal to lunches, dinners and suppers and entertain in return. It is really terrible to see so much good food placed before overfed people."

"When one is over 50, isn't 110 pounds too little for five feet in height? That is my height. I am down to 145 from 164, a loss of 19 pounds. That doesn't look much on paper, but it means no more tummy and a fast disappearing double chin. I can now get into a straight lined gown without exhibiting any curves."

"In the morning I turn on a gay jazz tune and dance wildly around. (I have the daily dozen, but they bore me.) Then I take a run along the beach and back home and have a shower and a breakfast of a cup of coffee with cream and sugar and a tiny bit of toast. After this, I follow your regime, and when I look in the glass, I say with beautiful feeling, 'God bless Dr. Peters.'—Yours gratefully,—Mrs. H."

Now there are several valuable things in this letter. First, let me comment upon the fact of feeling miserable and bad-tempered and sorry for yourself while reducing. On unscientific systems of reducing, that is, those that advise the elimination of all fats and starches and sugars, the diet is too high in proteins and this leads to acidosis and auto-intoxication. That is the reason for feeling so miserable while following unscientific diet directions.

The nerve tissues and all the other tissues are starving. The reducing diet we advise has to supply all the elements the system needs. Only some of its energy needs are cut out and the surplus body fat supplies these. No. 110 to 115 pounds is not too little for one over 50. The insurance statistics show that those who are underweight for the average at middle age are healthier and have a longer life expectancy.

Your habit of turning on a gay jazz tune and dancing is splendid. Doing any exercise with music makes it so much more enjoyable, as well as more effective. Your run along the beach made me homesick, because it is a little stunt I do myself in the summer-time. Only, instead of going home to the bath, I plunge into the waves and get a good pounding and have a good swim.

Your breakfast is the same that I take, with the exception of the sugar in the coffee. It certainly does make me happy when I think of your looking in the glass and saying "God bless Dr. Peters." He has blessed me in giving me my work."

Mrs. J.—You want to know if there is any cure for the falling of the womb, except operation. You bought a pessary at the drug store, but it made your back ache. For a complete prolapse, such as your letter describes, there is no cure except an operation. You ask if it is a serious operation. It is an abdominal operation and what we call a major operation, but in the hands of a skillful surgeon, it is very successful and not so serious as an operation where there are inflammatory conditions and pus. No wonder your pessary made your back ache. The pessary has to be fitted and molded to suit the individual requirements and this should be done by a skilled physician.

BURN OFF WEEDS IN SUBDIVISION

Association Members Stage Clean-up Drive; Fire Hazard Removed

Members of the Glendale Heights Improvement association last night turned out to the number of over twenty-five, and cleaned up an area in the south-east section of Glendale of about twenty-five acres, burning off the brush, dry grass and weeds, under the supervision of men detailed by the Glendale fire department.

The decision to remove the fire menace existing because of the weeds and brush was taken at a meeting held Monday in the Baudino building at the corner of Adams and Palmer streets, and the members of the association, after securing the necessary permission from the fire department, eliminated the danger of conflagration that has existed until the present, using every precaution to prevent any possible spread of the flames to other sections of Glendale.

H. F. Taylor, 1550 Cambridge drive, president of the association, was in charge of the clean-up of the lots.

Do You Know the
"Savings Feeling"?

A SENSE of prosperity and independence belongs to the saver. He is prosperous, for in his savings pass book is the key to financial advancement. He is independent, for his savings provide a bulwark against adversity and through them he may purchase whatever he wants that money can buy.

The saver holds his head high. He feels that he is a more important citizen of his community—and actually is. The possession of property of any sort—from a savings account to the many things that grow out of it—engenders better citizenship.

That is the "savings feeling." It may be purchased in small monthly payments through a teller's window at this bank.

Both of our Glendale Branches have Savings Departments and will gladly furnish one of our Beneficial Accounts in which the bank has entered a conditional deposit of One Dollar.

RECALLS BANKING DAYS YEARS AGO

Oklahoma Oil Man on Visit To A. R. Eastman; Were Early Partners

Banking experiences of early days in Oklahoma have been recalled by the visit to Glendale of E. J. Blank of Cushing, Okla., a financier with whom A. R. Eastman, president of the Glendale State bank, was associated in the beginning of the careers of both of them.

When Mr. Eastman started his first bank in Agra, Okla., he did business in a frame building measuring 12 by 20 feet and with chicken wire over the counter to save the gold reserve from any chance raids that might be made on it.

Mr. Blank at that time was station agent in Agra, but when Mr. Eastman moved to Cushing, he persuaded the former to go along and help organize a bank, in which Mr. Blank was given the position of manager.

From there he branched out, keeping pace with the development of Oklahoma, until today he owns two oil refineries and a lot of important production, but since coming to California he is planning to close out his interests in Oklahoma and settle in this state, according to statements he has made to Mr. Eastman.

Mr. Blank has been investigating conditions in Southern California and has found Glendale one of the most attractive spots he has visited, and his association with Mr. Eastman will form an important factor in helping to determine his selection of a residence when he settles out in Oklahoma and comes to California.

Pittsburgh Residents To Spend Summer Here

During Mrs. Gartley's absence from the offices of the Glendale Merchants association, Secretary Frank H. Pilling is on duty at the office in the Citizens building, although in the condition, as the result of his recent automobile accident, does not permit him to undertake any protracted tasks yet.

When the race driver selects his tires he does so realizing that his life and chances for success depend upon them. It is significant that all of the ten money winners in the Indianapolis race were Firestone shod. Firestone, using gum-dipping and other special processes, has developed tires to such a high degree of efficiency that at Indianapolis, May 30th, the following drivers broke the world's record for 500 miles over this brick track, making many rounds at over 100 miles per hour.

Never before were tires put to such gruelling service, where it was necessary for every ounce of rubber and every fibre of fabric to work in perfect unison with every other part.

STEADY WORK IN BUILDING TRADE

Contractor Beran Declares Business Activity Is Being Maintained

"There was never a time in the history of Glendale when our business was more satisfactory than it is at the present time," said S. S. Beran, architect, contractor and builder of 213 1/2 South Brand boulevard. "There has in the past been a little letting up in business in some lines, but not in ours. We have always had all the work we can successfully do. In order to take care of the work we have been compelled to increase our force from time to time, until now we have one of the largest building aggregations in this section of the country."

"We have constructed a large number of the better class of homes in Glendale. Although we handle the smaller structures we make a specialty of the better type homes. In connection with every job we endeavor to give satisfaction. Our aim is to take care of the details on every job that when the home is finished everyone will be entirely satisfied. Expert Workmen

"In all our work we use the very best of materials. We employ nothing but experienced workmen who know their work thoroughly. As a result, we get a job that is right in every sense of the word."

"The future looks exceedingly bright for us. We are satisfied with the way things are going and we believe Glendale has a rosy future before her."

Following is a letter received by Mr. Beran from M. A. Bryant, 141 Harvey drive, many letters of which kind of communications are on file in this builder's office:

"Mrs. Bryant and I wish to thank you and to express to you our appreciation of your services rendered in the building of our home at 141 Harvey drive, Glendale. We surely are well pleased with it in every particular. The building of a home takes considerable study to work out all of the details in connection thereto and it is certainly a relief to find a builder (with the knowledge and the willingness to do) who can be relied upon to carry through one's wish in design and workmanship in the final conclusion."

Hold Murder Theory In Death of Chinese

SACRAMENTO, July 18.—Dr. G. Fong, young Chinese physician of Woodland, was found dead on the east levee of the Sacramento river near Knights Landing under circumstances which indicated he had been murdered by bandits. The young Chinese had been shot through the head and body, the bullets apparently having been fired from a distance of fifteen or twenty feet, according to the police.

Mute Messengers of a Nation

IN AN underground telephone cable scarcely thicker than a man's wrist there are 2400 threadlike copper wires, each pair providing a path for instant speech.

These highways of the spoken word, buried beneath many an American city, are carrying thousands of voices simultaneously from office to factory and some from coast to coast.

If released from their copper carriers, these messages would sound a Babel, in which none could be heard. Confusion beyond description would reign if this unhindered speech, now hushed by science in tiny strands, were voiced aloud.

An average of 54,000,000 telephone conversations speed daily over the wires of the Bell System. By hundreds in cables, by dozens in the open wires, they travel in silence side by side, to find voice again only at their journey's end. Muted as they pass from telephone to telephone, they weave the pattern of the nation's life.

CHAPTER V

"Miss Collier is a very extraordinary person, Craig," old John said, amiably. "We're going to lose her, one of these days, like all the rest of the good ones!"

Hilary, smiling, with hot cheeks, realized that this little introduction of the personal did not especially interest Craig, and she wished that her garrulous old employer would hold his peace.

"She takes her little sister abroad, to study music, in a year or two," John Spaulding went on. "Extraordinary child!"

Craig looked kindly at Hilary, and she saw, with a rush of gratitude, that he perfectly appreciated that the introduction of her own affairs was none of her doing.

"I supposed, of course, that it was something else," he said, with his keen look.

"Oh, no—no—no! I don't imagine Miss Collier has much use for the Mount Holly boys!" his uncle laughed. And then immediately they were all talking business in a most businesslike way. Craig would come down in the morning; Hilary would please tell Hubert to bring in the desk, and fix the lights. The young man and his uncle would go over everything at ten o'clock, and so on.

"Sorry to have kept you, Miss Collier," said her employer. "The train was late, and I thought we might go over that invoice from Goldbaum tonight. Good night!"

"Good night!" Her telephone thrilled. With her serious eyes upon the two men she lifted it to her chest. "Oh, yes, Mrs. Underwood," they heard her say. "Yes, I believe Mr. Craig Spaulding arrived this afternoon. Shall I try to get him for you? Yes, that would be better, I think. You could probably get him at the house later on."

She set down the instrument; all three smiled.

"Miss Collier," said Craig Spaulding, with his finished, brisk air, "consider yourself retained at any price!"

Hilary echoed their cheerful good nights, and went through the darkened abandoned offices with a singing heart. She locked the coat-room, let herself out past the watchman, at a side door, and turned off into the quiet little back street that had been her own personal world since childhood. She had to pick her way, there was treacherous slush underfoot, and here among the big trees and decorous old brick walls the street lights did not help very effectively. She knew all these houses and the people in them: she and Dora had their favorites among the old pink and cream brick buildings, admired this old Revolutionary balcony, or that graceful line of side wall.

She could see lights upstairs in the Brewster house; Minnie and her father and mother were putting the baby to bed. They made a great fuss about Minnie's baby, the first grandchild. And the Fosters' side parlor was lighted; perhaps Tom and Elizabeth were home. The family never used it otherwise.

Her own lane ran close under the yellow stream from the tall windows; the Colliers' little home was a tiny brick building of four rooms. It was detached from the big house beside it, now, but it was called what it had once in fact been: "the Carolan kitchen." It stood, a graceful little wing, beside the shabby old main house. Both were of creamy brick, mellowed by the snows and summers of nearly two hundred years.

The girl was thrilling, as she hurried home in the cold dark, and was annoyed to feel herself thrilling, to the memory of that last few minutes of talk with Craig in the outer office. It would be good to get home, and begin to toast the croutons, and tell Dora the great news of Kronski. Nothing could be more ridiculous than Hilary Collier should allow her thoughts to linger even a moment upon the personality of Craig Spaulding.

He was rich; he was—even Hilary could see it!—supremely a man of the world. He thought no more of his uncle's secretary than she herself thought of the police who took her across a muddy Philadelphia crossing, or the conductor who punched her ticket in the train. Women always admired rich and brilliant men, and he was more than that; she knew that he was good and steady and kind. He was probably engaged at this minute to some girl of his own type, some rich and lovely creature who moved in an atmosphere of perfumes and furs and violets, and great, softly lighted drawing rooms.

The Underwood girls. Hilary's lip curled scornfully. They had not lost much time! Neither one of them needed hope for him. . . . An odd little pang of envy surprised her: at least they were of his world, and she was not.

She came to her own gate: a narrow gate in an old brick wall, and a narrow path led to the street. It would be good to get home to

Views and Theatres News Notes

"The Gray Wolf" continues to divert playgoers at the tent theatre of Murphy's Comedians on Stocker street, Casa Verdugo, between Brand boulevard and Central avenue.

The play is a clever comedy-drama, well staged and with an excellent cast. Laughs and thrills follow one another in rapid succession throughout the play.

The curtain rises each night promptly at 8 o'clock, states Manager J. A. Menard of Murphy's Comedians, though those who wish to assure themselves of front seats may come as early as 7:15 o'clock.

"The Gray Wolf" is something different, well removed from the conventional play pattern. Murphy's Comedians are offering it for the first time on the Pacific coast.

warmth and rest and Dora. "Consider yourself retained . . . kind as she looks, I imagine she can be a little martinet!"

How his phrases and tones came back to her! There had been few men in her busy life; never one like this one. So strangely potent is the first hint of sex in a girl's heart that these casual phrases, tossed into Hilary Collier's full and ordered life, were enough to distress her, to upset her careful planning, to stir vaguely the depths that she had never suspected in her own being.

Kronski's coming, marked, she knew, a crisis in her life; coming coincidentally with Dora's eighteenth birthday; his unexpected appearance had all the gravity of a moving fate.

Yet here she was, her mind working busily along an entirely new line of thought, like that of any one of the foolish village girls in the factory, because old Spaulding's nephew, exiled for a few months from his clubs and his polo and his yachting, had deigned to draw her into a moment's careless friendship.

She felt within her a stern self-contempt as she opened the kitchen door.

Fruit Growers' Money Acts as Trade Tonic

ATLANTA, July 13.—Retail and wholesale business has been stimulated by the receipt so far this season of between $15,000,000 and $20,000,000 by Georgia fruit and truck growers. Jobbers report active buying of fall lines by rural stores. The morale of the farming communities is higher today than at any time since the advent of the boll weevil, since the prospect is for a million bale cotton crop for the state with an estimated value of $175,000,000, including seed. Growers are cultivating actively and seem to be waging a winning fight against the weevil. The state college of agriculture estimates that Georgia livestock and farm products will yield a half billion dollars this year, an increase of $55,000,000 in farmer purchasing power in the last 12 months.

Georgia Shipment of Fruit Nearing Peak

ATLANTA, July 13.—Georgia peach and watermelon shipments are increasing daily and will be at their peak within ten days. The cantaloupe movement is falling off, the product selling at $2.75 to $3.25 a crate. The heaviness of Georgia and Texas watermelon shipments will more than offset the short supply from Florida, although prices have weakened about $100 a car.

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY IN THE WELL

Uncle Wiggily was hopping along the woodland path one day, going out to his camp under the umbrella tent, when he saw Jollie and Jollie Longtail, the mouse brother and sister.

"Hello, Jollie and Jollie!" called the rabbit gentleman, as he twinkled his pink nose. "Why don't you come out to see me in my camp?"

"Thank you, we shall be very pleased to do that," squeaked Jollie politely, being a little girl mouse.

"Have you anything good to eat out at your camp?" asked Jollie, who was a boy mouse, and, in consequence, always hungry.

"I have some fine cheese cake out at my camp," spoke the rabbit.

"Oh," cried Jollie. "Ah," cried Jollie. For they were very fond of cheese cake.

"Come along out to camp with me," invited the bunny. And when they got there—no, the cupboard wasn't bare, as it was in the story of Mother Hubbard. For Uncle Wiggily's cupboard was a wooden box, and in it were some pieces of cheese cake and other things to eat.

"Wasn't Uncle Wiggily lovely to us?" asked Jollie of her brother, as, a little later, they were going home together from the bunny's camp.

"Yes, he was top hole good," squeaked Jollie, speaking like a little English mouse. And he picked from his whiskers some crumbs of cheese cake and swallowed the cake crumbs.

"I wish we could do something for Uncle Wiggily, because he was very busy in his woodland camp. For he had made up his mind to dig a well where he could draw water.

"A spring is all right," said the bunny, "and so is a babbling brook. But if I have my own well I can draw water when I please. I will dig me a well." Which he did. For rabbits are very good diggers, you know. Uncle Wiggily dug quite a deep hole down in the ground, but he never came to water.

"Never mind," he said. "I will dig the well deeper after lunch, and then I will come to water. I'll hop out now and get something to eat."

But when he tried to hop out of his well he couldn't. He had dug himself in too deeply. Up and up he jumped, but he couldn't jump out of the well, even if it had no water in.

"Oh, well, what shall I do?" cried poor Uncle Wiggily down in the well hole. "How can I get out?"

"We will help you out!" suddenly cried out two little voices.

"Who are you?" asked the rabbit.

"We are Jollie and Jollie Longtail—the mice," was the answer. "We came back to see if you had any more cheese cake," squeaked Jollie. "We heard you call from down in the well. Wait a minute and we will help you out."

"Are you strong enough to pull me out of the well?" asked the rabbit, as he saw the two little mice looking down at him from over the edge.

"If we aren't we will get the Police Dog to help us," said Jollie.

HOMECOMING DAY FOR SOX SUNDAY

Van Nuys to Be Opponents For Champions; To Play Winner-Take-All

Sunday will be homecoming day for the championship Glendale White Sox, when they will make their first appearance at the San Fernando ball lot for the first time in three weeks. The pale hose squad will meet the Van Nuys aggregation in a winner-take-all game.

Van Nuys fell before the hard-hitting, fast-fielding, base-stealing Sox on June 29, when Reiger hurled the champions to an 8-to-2 victory over the valley lads. The invaders think they learned a lot about the playing system of the Sox, enough so, they believe, that they can turn back the Sox Sunday.

Since the White Sox showed the boys from up the valley that the twenty consecutive victories were won by science, and not luck, the Sox have added three more games to their credit in as many starts. They beat the Catalina Cubs at Catalina Island on July 5 and 6 and then, last Sunday, they journeyed over to El Segundo and gave the beach boys a trouncing in the final Summer league game.

Line-Up Is Intact
Robertson will start for the Van Nuys team, according to information drifting down the valley. Robertson once hurled good ball in the Coast League, but the Sox got next to him for eight hits in five innings and scored seven runs. Waterfield finished the game, holding the Sox to three hits and one run.

Elmer Reiger, who has been doing some good mound work for the Sox the last few weeks, will draw the pitching assignment for Sunday. Manager Carl Sawyer has announced. Behind the plate will be "Big Boy" Sullivan. Shellenback will play his usual position, first base; Sawyer will hold down the keystone sack, and Shields will cavort around third, with Hingoyen playing short. Cy Young, Charley Dorman and Frenchy Orsatt will be out in the gardens.

Inasmuch as the Sox have not appeared at the local park for three weeks, and also in view of the fact that they have not found a semi-pro team in southern California good enough to beat them this season, a good turnout at the game Sunday is expected.

MISS WILLS IN OLYMPIC FINALS

Will Meet Winner of Mille. Vlasto-Miss McKane Set for Title

PARIS, July 18.—Miss Helen Wills, California girl wonder and American woman's tennis champion, won her way into the finals of the Olympic tennis championships today when she defeated Mille, Golding of France in straight sets. Scores 6-2, 6-1.

Miss Wills will meet the winner of the match between Miss Kathleen McKane of England and Mlle. Vlasto of France for the Olympic championship.

Vincent Richard, lone American survivor in the men's singles, also entered the final round when he defeated Baron de Morpurgo of Italy, three sets out of four. Scores 6-3, 3-6, 6-1, 6-4.

Richards will meet the winner of the Henri Cochet-Jean Borotra matches in the final round.

The Giants had their lead in the National league cut to nine and one-half games when they lost a thirteen-inning game to the Pirates while the Cubs were trimming the Phillies.

Grimes' wildness and poor support caused the Dodgers' defeat by the Reds and sent Brooklyn down to fourth place.

Swimming Records Fall as Americans First In Olympics

PARIS, July 18.—American women swimmers set a new world's mark today when they won the 400-metre relay race in the Olympic championships. The women swam the distance in 4 minutes 58.4-5 seconds.

Johnny Weissmuller of the Illinois A. C., Chicago, scored another triumph for America when he won the final in the 400-metre free style race and established a new Olympic mark of 5 minutes 41.5 seconds. The former mark was 5:24.2-5, made by Hodgson, the Canadian, in 1912.

BURNS AND ADAMS TO SETTLE TITLE

Final Bout of Lightweight Elimination Contest on Card Tonight

Johnny Adams and "Oakland Frankie" Burns will settle the dispute about the Pacific coast lightweight championship tonight at the Hollywood Legion stadium when these two scrappers mix in the final bout of the lightweight elimination contest.

Adams, who hails from San Bernardino, will hear the voices of 150 San Bernardino fight fans raised in his support, while Burns will be a favorite among many.

It will also be Knute Rockne night, for the famous Notre Dame coach will be the special guest of honor, and will be surrounded by many Notre Dame alumni. The members of Hollywood Post No. 43 will present Rockne with a token from the post. He will be introduced from the ring.

In the semi-windup Larry Murphy and Gene Delmont will mix at 133 pounds. Johnny Lotsey and Jack Lewis are billed for the special spot. Dude Martinez and Hank Gatton, both 152 pounds, will mingle in what promises to be a fast bout. Joe Pimental will meet Toby Montoya at 122 pounds. Benny Pascal and Young Danny, a couple of 122 pounders, will open the show.

Jess Haynes carved his name into baseball's hall of fame when he hurled a no-hit game against the Braves. He issued three passes, however, in the first time since 1876 that a St. Louis pitcher performed this feat, and the first nohit game pitched this season in the majors.

ANGELS EVEN UP OAKLAND SERIES

Seraphs Win Close Game by Score of 7 to 6; Seals Beat Tigers 8-7

By BEN MCGUIRE
For Southland News Service.
LOS ANGELES, Calif., July 18.—Los Angeles evened up the series with Oakland here yesterday winning a see-saw contest, 7 to 6. Ote Crandall, Angel ace, opposed the well-known Duster Mails, and it was a fifty-fifty shot between both hurlers until Walter was taken out for a pinch hitter in the seventh.

Oakland drew first blood in the second by sending three runs over on three hits and a throw to the dugout. Los Angeles took the lead in the fourth when they got to Mails for five hits, chasing four runs over the platter.

The Oaks forged ahead in the fifth by gathering three runs. The Angels, however, did not intend to be outdone and came back in their half, slipping two runs over, giving Crandall a one-run lead which was enough for the veteran, who pitched brilliant ball the last four innings.

In a ten-inning game the Seals won from Vernon at the former city by an 8 to 7 score. Bryan couldn't hold a six-run lead after the third inning.

Seattle lost their second game to the Bees, 12 to 11.

Portland lost at Sacramento, 4 to 3, although Bedient allowed only five hits.

Central Cleaners Win Over Harris & Hull

The Central Cleaners almost won three games from the Harris & Hull bowlers last night at the Recreation alleys. After dropping two straight games, the Harris & Hull rollers managed to nose out the Cleaners by three pins in the third game. Pabst was the only man on the losing team getting better than 200, rolling 206 in the opening game. McLane was high score man with 211.
